

I can't recall in my lifetime during a Presidential Inauguration week such deep fear, dislike, disgust and widespread uneasiness about an incoming president. Even George Washington would be dismayed.

Mr. Trump is robbing Americans of that deep sense of pride in our peaceful transition of power that we normally love showcasing to the world.

Who STARTS a new era of global leadership by inspiring daily a ever growing feeling of no confidence?

It seems the choice for millions this Friday is NOT to watch the swearing-in. Instead many will be in deep prayer that God protect us despite this man, or that God calms the world enough so this new president can't trigger an unexpected attack due to some juvenile, shortsighted thinking or insensitive reaction.

Mr. Trump you will be #45 to walk in George Washington's shoes. He won our freedom in a war that The People chose to fight. Making billions in real estate is not equal to that noble cause & bloodshed. Please stop playing the TV role of 'outside gunslinger,' and start acting at least as measured, humble and cautious as your beloved children. Don't make voters so exhausted and fed up with your antics that they quickly demand you go away on your own. Nobody wants another GOP-Nixon-like impeachment drama again!

More and more folks now openly talk about you quitting the job when you finally realize how destructive and demoralizing your rantings are. Many think your meltdown will come within two years!

Diplomacy at age 70 is a trick you MUST learn Mr. Trump no matter that old saying about what old dogs can't do!

Commentary by Bob Rucker
SJSU Journalism Digital Media Coordinator,
Professor & Fmr. CNN Correspondent