

Are you struggling with student debt?

The Humanities Department and MOSAIC is holding a two day conference this Thursday, April 20th, 2017 and Friday, April 21st called “Living the Indebted Life: You are Not A Loan” to discuss the series of recent tuition hikes and how students can cope with the current student debt crisis.

In the wake of Donald Trump’s presidency, past, present and future students are likely to experience an even more strenuous debt crisis. Students, faculty, staff, administrators, alumni and community members are all affected by this. At this time, we are looking to raise awareness about the student debt crisis, open critical conversation and advocate for change. During this conference, we will be discussing the need for fundamental and utopian debt demands, such as debt abolition and free public higher education.

This free public event is a collaborative effort led by the Humanities Department and MOSAIC Cross Cultural Center, Student Services, College of Education, College of Humanities and the Arts, California Faculty Association, College of Business, and the College of Social Sciences.

If you are interested, please register for this free event by the day of each conference. You must register for each conference individually.

Conference Day 1: April 20, 2017; 2PM-7PM, Martin Luther King Library

Conference Day 2: April 21, 2017; 10AM-4PM, Student Union Theater

If you have any questions or concerns, you can find more information on the event webpage.

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/student-debt-conference-day-1-tickets-31167674353>

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/student-debt-conference-day-2-tickets-31166242069>

We Learn By Doing!